Why Start a Business When You Can Buy an Existing Business?

Have you been kicking around the idea of going into business, but you aren't sure how to get started? The freedom to call your own shots and to only be accountable to yourself are just a few of the perks of running your own company. You know you've got what it takes to be successful, but building a business from the ground up can be difficult, risky and time consuming. There are better ways to gain the benefits without so much of the risk. You can be the entrepreneur you've always dreamed of being without the backbreaking work of establishing yourself and with much less risk to your capital. Instead of investing in an untested idea, why not purchase a business that has already proven itself?

It may seem that buying a business is out of your reach, but you might be surprised to learn how affordable it can be. There are hundreds of business owners, motivated to sell, who are just waiting for the right buyer. You might also believe that businesses are only sold when they are in trouble, but many people sell their successful companies because they are ready for a change or are ready to retire. This creates a unique opportunity for the right person with the right amount of capital.

With these ventures, you cut out the stress of gathering the necessary equipment or finding the right talent. An established business is already equipped to be fully operational and often comes with trained staff. You don't have to develop an untested business plan or wonder if the community will be receptive to your company – the business has proven itself using a plan that is already in place. You gain the reward of automatic success while minimizing your own risk.

If the idea of purchasing a business intrigues you, the first step to realizing your dream is contacting a LINK broker. LINK has been introducing businesses to the right buyers since 1996, and our database of organizations for sale is extensive. Even if you have a specific industry in mind, you can find a company on the market that meets your needs. Not only will LINK help you find the business that's right for you, we'll also walk you through every aspect of the sale, so you'll always know what to expect.
